

On September 16, 2020, the online meeting of the Board of Presidents of INTERNATIONAL ACADEMY OF ENGINEERING was held. The director of TCIAE, Dr. Jenn-Chuan CHERN, had a speech during the meeting. The following is the content:

I would like to give you a brief report on some of our main work and achievements. The Taiwan Chapter held its board of directors meeting on July 16th. President Gusev and Mr. Song-Jeng Huang, who is the director of Science and Technology Division of Taipei Representative Office in Moscow, were invited to talk about the interactions between Taiwan and Russia. A news article about their talks has been posted on the Taiwan Chapter's website.

Thanks to the hard work of our administrator, all the information on our website is available in Chinese, English and Russian. We welcome members from other chapters to visit the website for any resources they need.

<http://www.tciae.org.tw/>

From June 18 to 21, 2020, we announced the latest Tang Prize winners. They are: Britain's Jane Goodall in Sustainable Development; America's Charles Dinarello, Marc Feldman, who is both British and Australian, and Japan's Tadimitsu Kishimoto in Biopharmaceutical Science; Australia's Wang Gungwu in Sinology; and for the prize in Rule of Law, it went to three non-governmental organizations: Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association based in Bangladesh, Dejusticia based in Colombia, and The Legal Agenda based in Agenda. They will share the prize money, 1.7 million US dollars.

On September 21 and 22, the Tang Prize Foundation will hold four Masters' Forums, lifting the curtain on this year's Tang Prize events. The Foundation cordially invites anyone interested to visit our official website and participate online in these thought-provoking conferences. (<https://www.tang-prize.org/en/week.php?cat=94>)

Sustainable Development

https://www.tang-prize.org/ton/develop_en.html

Biopharmaceutical Science

https://www.tang-prize.org/ton/science_en.html

Written by Administrator

Monday, 21 September 2020 15:28 - Last Updated Monday, 21 September 2020 16:01

Taiwan has been able to contain the spread of COVID-19, and so far people's lives here have not changed that much. But some travel restrictions are still in place. From this moment on, I think our focus should be on developing effective vaccines and drugs and on bringing them to market. It will require our collective efforts to achieve this goal. Finally, I hope everyone will take good care of themselves and I wish you all the best.

Encouraging Contribution To Humanity

Samuel Yin founded the Tang Prize in 2012 as an extension of the value his family placed on education. Harkening back to the golden age of the Tang Dynasty in Chinese history, the Tang Prize seeks to be an inspiring force for all people of the world. It awards major achievements in four fields irrespective of nationality or ethnicity.

The Prize Selection Committee invites noted international experts in the four award categories to submit nominees. Every two years, Tang Prize recipients are awarded with the medal and diploma, as well as a US$1.35 million cash prize and US$0.34 million grant to cultivate the next generation of outstanding contributors.

2020 TANG PRIZE LAUREATES

Sustainable Development

Jane Goodall (UK)

Biopharmaceutical Science

Charles Dinarello

(USA)

Marc Feldmann

(UK/Australia)

Tadimitsu Kishimoto

(Japan)

Sinology

Wang Gungwu

(Australia)

Rule of Law

Bangladesh Environmental Lawyers Association

(Bangladesh)

Dejusticia Law
Justice
Society

Dejusticia:
The Center for Law,
Justice and Society

(Colombia)

The Legal Agenda

(Lebanon)

Written by Administrator

Monday, 21 September 2020 15:28 - Last Updated Monday, 21 September 2020 16:01
